Township Committee Looks for Eraser To Remove 4-Lane Road from Its Midst

A 50-foot-wide, four-lane road setting out across the reaches of Princeton Township can weld Township Committee into a solid mass no bulldozer would dare to approach.

The road is on Mercer County's 1973 Master Plan. It had been a subject of discussion with the Mercer County Planning Director, Leo Laaksonen, at a recent Planning Board session broadly devoted to the "Year 2000 Transportation Plan" of the Delaware Valley Regional Planning Commission. Mayor Josie Hall told Committee about that meeting last Wednesday.

"This doesn't mean we need to lie down in front of the bulldozers tomorrow or even next year," Mayor Hall acknowledged.

"I'm not going to force it on Princeton," Mr. Laaksonen said this week, "I'm here to find a solution."

The road, known as "Winfield Extension," starts at Rosedale Road near Johnson Park School, cuts across The Great Road north of Mountain Avenue, slices into the new Community Park North recreation area and crosses Cherry Hill, emerging onto State Road with two spurs, one of which goes through the Unitarian Church.

"The county wants to know as soon as possible whether the Township would like to add or delete anything," Mayor Hall reported.

"Township Committee (has) decided to request no new roads at this time," Mayor Hall has written to Mr. Laaksonen, and "strongly feels" that Winfield Extension should be "immediately deleted."

The letter gives three reasons: the road bisects Community Park North, which hadn't yet been developed when the map was drawn; it is in a section regarded as "environmentally sensitive" and it doesn't take into account the forthcoming Mountain Avenue extension and jug-handle, which will close off Bayard Lane from Route 206 to Mountain Avenue, and extend Mountain to 206 with a jug-handle.

Community Park North is "inconsistent" with the county's Master Plan, Mr. Laaksonen said, pointing out that the plan had been adopted some five years ago after meetings with all communities in the county. He observed that membership on municipal governing bodies change and suggested that was the reason the present Committee was not aware of the road.

"We want to work with Princeton on a suitable alignment," he continued. "There should be a north-west by-pass to relieve congestion on Route 206. This isn't a replacement for a 92-A by-pass, which is on the other side of Princeton. It would help Bayard Lane traffic and would serve Princeton."

"But I'm not going to force it, if the Princeton community wants to live with the 206 traffic problems...."

Mr. Laaksonen said he had no precise traffic counts, but that studies made in the early 1970s seemed to indicate the need. He added that the road is not part of the county's proposed capital projects to be presented to the DVRPC.

15 More Inches Virtually Shut the Town; Fall Tops Winter Average—More on Way

A 15-inch snowfall hit Princeton Monday, falling on top of snow that had almost paralyzed the community only 17 days earlier.

Estimates of depth were only averages at best, because the fine, dry snow blew so hard and in such drifts that precise measurement was impossible.

And more may be on the way. David Ludlum of Science Associates pointed on Tuesday to a low-pressure area forming in the Gulf of Mexico and advised a close watch on it starting this Thursday night.

Mr. Ludlum measured 15 inches in his relatively sheltered front yard on Riverside Drive. His colleague, Dan Mazzarella, reported an average of 15 inches at his Magnolia Lane home. Trenton reported 16.

The storm is in a tie for the third heaviest in this area, Mr. Ludlum reported. Trenton also had 16 inches in the Easter storm of 1915.

The biggest for the Trenton-Princeton area was 22 inches on February 12-13, 1899. Second biggest was the Blizzard of '88, 21 inches on March 13, 1888.

People living in Princeton today are comparing this week's storm to another pair of big ones: December, 1947 and February 6-7, 1967. Mr. Ludlum's records show only nine inches in Trenton during the '47 storm, but New York City took 26.4 inches. In the storm of February, 1967, Princeton had 13.8

"It was a storm worthy of our grandfathers," Mr. Ludlum said happily of this week's event. After the January 20th snow, he had said, "A storm worthy of our fathers."

"It was a storm that took a while to make its mind up," Mr. Ludlum explained, and it sat in the Cape May-Atlantic City area, about 150 miles offshore, from Monday morning to late afternoon.

Incidentally, that 150-mile position off-shore is a crucial distance.

"When you're 150 to 200 miles from the center of a storm, you get the maximum amount of snow," Mr. Ludlum says. "If you're too close you get rain."

A trough of low pressure was responsible. The storm was expected to form at the southern end of the trough and that's why radio and TV reported a storm off Cape Hatteras.

Instead, the storm formed in the central portion of the trough. It was a weak storm, coming across Pennsylvania. At dawn Monday, it reached the coast and its main center re-developed off Delaware.

Around two or three inches fell Monday morning from that trough of low pressure, Mr. Ludlum continues, but then the off-shore low pressure developed and gave us the biggest storm in the afternoon.

"It was pure snow," Mr. Mazzarella comments, "not mixed with sleet, the way it was January 20."

Winter is only half over, Mr. Ludlum reminded Princeton this week, and the town has already had more snow than usually falls for an entire winter.

Normal snowfall for a Princeton winter is about 30 inches. We've already had 35.5: two four-inch snows, the January 20 one of 12.5, and the present 15-incher.

Are we headed for a new ice-age?

Well...Mr. Ludlum pointed to a "mini ice-age" in the 16th and 17th centuries. Then, a warming trend began around 1890 and continued until about 1940.

"Since then, we've had a pendulum; it was warm in the early 1950s, cold in the 1960s, four warm winters in '72, '73, '74 and '75, then two cold ones. Two cold winters in a row is unusual."

Next Monday--weather permitting--Mr. Ludlum will travel to Washington to be lead-off speaker at a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Subject: "The Impact of the 1976-77 Winter on the Nation."

The impact of this winter on this part of the nation is something Princeton residents will be talking about for a long time.

Especially, perhaps, the Kingston mother who made it to the Princeton

Medical Center late Monday afternoon in time to give birth to a daughter. Will the daughter learn, in later years, that Princeton Township police in a patrol car went in search of her parents as they drove in through snowy Route 27?

Only three emergency cases appeared in the hospital's emergency room during the day on Monday. More than 100 of the hospital's staff stayed overnight that night, sleeping on cots in meeting rooms or on couches in the waiting room.

"Unsung heroes," is the way Medical Center president John Kauffman describes the maintenance crew. One member of the crew worked 36 hours with only an hour of sleep, keeping driveways and parking areas free for ambulances, cars, or whatever emergency might arise.

Volunteer hospital workers walked to the hospital, and once again, as in the January storm, staff walked in from distant communities.

Strict enforcement of "no parking" regulations meant that snow-removal crews, especially in the Borough, could get the snow out of the way faster than in the January

Governor Brendan T. Byrne's "limited emergency" was tightened in many towns to a total emergency. Hightstown, for example, warned drivers that they might receive a $500 fine if they went out on the streets. In West and East Windsor and Hamilton Townships, there was also the threat of tickets with sentencing up to the magistrate.

So people walked or skied. It's the winter of the cross-country ski (Mine Mountain Sports had a brisk trade Monday and Tuesday) and walker and skiers uptown on Tuesday found a strangely quiet town. With the deep snow and without the traffic, it was as quiet as a walk in the country. The air-quality must have been top flight.

The dinky to the Junction was running, and a good thing, too, because parking spaces weren't plowed at the other end. But Tuesday morning, although there was a dinky, there was no engineer: he was snow-bound.

If you ran out of food, you walked to get it. Shopping Center supermarkets were open, and reported their worst shortage was cash. "We're fighting for everything we get," commented manager Lou Funk of Davidson's, but shelves were well-stocked both days. Toto's Market made no deliveries Tuesday, but was open Monday and Tuesday.

Students from Cloister Inn, a Princeton University undergraduate club, bought 15 dozen eggs at a supermarket because their egg man hadn't come around.

Hult's shoe store hung a "closed" sign in the window, and added a postscript: "We're just about out of boots, anyway."

Mail was delivered Monday, but few carriers made it the whole way. On Tuesday, there was no mail delivery except specials and "Rush: Medical Supplies" because only eight of the 45 carriers could get to the post office according to Drivers, once driving becomes habitual again, are urged to watch those high curb-side mounds of snow: they are splendid playgrounds and slides for children who don't always look out for cars.

And if you have nothing else to watch, you might just keep a weather eye on that low-pressure area in the Gulf of Mexico, and don't stow your snow-shovel too far inland.

Principal Streets in Borough Well Plowed After 43 Cars Are Towed at Police Orders

Early arrivers on Nassau Place and the Clay Street area Tuesday morning, after the snow had finally stopped, were greeted by a rare sight: it was deserted.

Considering that police had been advising motorists to stay home, that wasn't unexpected. But there was something even more unusual. Nassau Street was plowed clean — from curb to curb. So was Witherspoon Street. And University Place.

"Nassau Street was in better condition than it was after the January 20th storm when less snow had fallen," crowed Borough Chief Michael Carnevale. "Usually, there is a two-week problem with cars plowed in," he said.

How did the police do it? Simple. Any car left on the street was towed away. Beginning on Nassau Street Monday evening, aided by wreckers from Larry's all the Borough streets are clear. Sunoco, Perna's and Princeton Exxon, they cleared Nassau, then moved on to Witherspoon. Then University

By Tuesday morning, 43 cars had been towed away, and their owners issued a summons. Those who couldn't find their cars and called police were given the phone number and location of the tow service that had removed them. In addition to the summons, violators will have to pay the towing charge.

"You can see the end result," said Chief Carnevale. "The streets are clean and emergency vehicles can get through. I think we're in excellent condition."

Borough road crews worked through the night. Nine cots were set up by the police in the Civil Defense room in the basement of Borough Hall for the crew members. "They're really exhausted," commented Chief Carnevale. The plows will keep working until all the Borough streets are clear.

All in all, the side streets were passable, Chief Carnevale reported. The plows

It wasn't enough for January to set a record for snow — now February and the winter as a whole have the same goal in mind.

It will, the Man reports, remain generally clear and relatively cold until the weekend. As is so often the case after a big storm, word of more snow by Saturday is already spreading.

had been through numerous times, he stated, but some roads remained difficult to negotiate because of drifting.

Chief Carnevale also reported that police had not received any emergency calls during the storm. They did get one request, he added. A man whose wife was about to have a baby asked police not to tow his car from Spring Street. It was honored.

No Complaints in Township. In the Township, Chief Frederick Porter said that police had not received a single complaint about road conditions. He told a caller Tuesday morning that he had been unable to sleep all night, worrying about who was going to get in, how many men would he have, what was he going to do about the Birch Avenue area. He suspended alternate parking for the day.

All main roads in the Township were open, said Traffic Safety Officer Sgt. Anthony Nini. However, it will take a while for road crews to get to interior roads, he said, which were still bad. As in the Borough, weary Township crews worked through the night.

Actually, not too many people were moving in the Township Tuesday morning, they were heeding radio warnings by the police to stay home. Sgt. Nini said that while South Harrison Street was in poor condition and there were sizeable drifts at the Shopping Center, all other major arteries were open but hazardous.

Chief Porter urged all residents in the Clay - Birch Street bottleneck area to dig their cars out as soon as possible. "It's important that we plow to allow for the safe flow of traffic," he commented.

Hello, Police? All four police lines were going full blast between 8 and 9:30 Tuesday morning, said Ptl. Walter V. Emann, the beleaguered desk man. "You have to have a cool mind to handle it," he said.

One caller wanted to know if Lake Carnegie had been cleared for skating. Another reported having enough food for one day and wanted to know if she could make it to the Princeton Shopping Center.

Sgt. Nini, Chief Porter and Det. Frank Bocciafuso aided Ptl. Emann in taking calls. One caller asked Sgt. Nini if it was okay for him to go for a walk — "as if I'm his father," said Sgt. Nini.

Chief Porter reported the police spent a great deal of time transporting doctors and nurses to Princeton Medical Center and others essential for business. He called the Hopewell Police Chief, asking his aid in transporting the druggist at the Thrift Drug Store in the Princeton Shopping Center, who lives in Hopewell, as far as ETS where Township police could pick him up. "We've had several calls for drugs and this is the only store in the Township," he explained.

Two Township residents, one in the east end and one from the west end, offered their four-wheel vehicles to the police to aid in the snow clearing. Their offer was accepted.

return to the board if a P-3 lab were to be included.

Originally, Council had planned to introduce the DNA ordinance at its February meeting next Tuesday at 8 p.m. It is not known whether Council can now meet that schedule.

"NO" AND "YES"

To Borough Apartments. A unanimous "no" is the Borough Zoning Board's answer to the request of Williamson Construction to make eight apartments where four now exist in the property at 12-14 Quarry Street. The board said that Williamson hadn't shown "hardship," as required in the ordinance.

The board, also unanimously, has given its approval to Princeton University for construction of four duplex apartments in the University's 4 Mercer Street building.

3 MORE ARE VICTIMS

Of Sexual Assaults. Three more incidents of sexual assaults were reported Monday by Borough Chief Michael Carnevale, bringing to eight the number of such attacks since December 2. All victims were grabbed and molested or subjected to verbal obscenities, lewd or suggestive remarks, Chief Carnevale said.

The most recent attacks took place on the Princeton University campus near Spelman Hall and Prospect Gardens and on Witherspoon Street. Others have occurred on Olden Street, Nassau Street, Green Hall, Fouke Hall and again on Witherspoon.

The latest incident happened Saturday evening shortly after 8 when a university student was cutting across the grounds of Spelman Hall on her way to the Princeton Inn Dorm. A man ran up to her and grabbed her arm, police said, but when he heard voices of people coming toward them, he released her and fled toward Pyne Hall. He did not utter any remarks, police said. He was described as about 25, blonde hair, medium build. He was not wearing a coat.

Earlier in the week, another university student was grabbed from behind as she was walking near Prospect Gardens around 6:30 p.m. Her assailant made obscene remarks, police said.

She managed to direct two sharp blows with her elbow to her assailant's chest, causing him to flee across the campus. He was described as about 19, 5-7, 150 pounds.

Less than two hours earlier, a suspect with the same general description (17-20, 5-8, 150 pounds) assaulted a young Township woman while she was walking on Witherspoon near Quarry Street. The suspect grabbed her from the rear and made obscene remarks, police said.

When she continued walking, he broke away and left the scene. "From the description of both suspects, it could be the same person," Chief Carnevale said. Both, he added, were wearing blue, parka-type jackets.

However, from the descriptions police have received in all eight attacks, Chief Carnevale reported that two different suspects are involved. Det. Timothy Huizing is continuing the police investigation.

Police Exam Scheduled

The Township police department plans to add two patrolmen to its force.

An examination will be held Thursday, February 23, at 3 at Princeton High School on Moore Street. Applicants must apply in person at Township police headquarters in Township Hall on Route 206 to pick up a registration form. None will be accepted after February 20.

Anyone who is a citizen of the United States, a resident of New Jersey, is between 18-35, in good health and moral character is eligible. Successful candidates must agree to comply with local and state residency requirements.

Starting salary for a Township patrol officer is $12,000, increasing to a maximum of $16,864 after four years of service. There are liberal job benefits.

Street and Murray Place Saturday night and escaped with approximately $230 from a cash register.

According to police, one approached the lone attendant, who was restocking an oil display case, shortly before 10. He asked for dollar in change. Both went into the station office where they were joined by a second man, who was armed. A third appeared a moment later, police said.

After taking the money, the three dragged the attendant to a rear storage area but it was locked. Next, they took him to the men's room but that, too, was locked.

Finally, police continued, they dragged the attendant back to the office. Two started up a car parked nearby, whereupon the third suspect jumped in and the three sped away.

The suspect carrying the rifle was described as black, about 20, six feet tall, wearing a reddish, high school style athletic jacket, blue jeans and a yellow ski mask.

The second was described as black, 17 to 18, slender, with a close cut Afro, wearing a blue jacket and blue jeans. The third was about 18, slender, with a goatee, wearing blue jeans. Police said he was possibly a Puerto Rican.

Sgt. Thomas Michaud, Ptl John Holcombe and Ptl Chris Bouto investigated.

TWO ARE CHARGED

With Marijuana Possession. Two 19-year old men from outside the Princeton area have been charged by Borough police with possession of less than 25 grams of marijuana.

Scheduled to appear in court next Wednesday are Joseph Bielinski of Plainfield and Peter Nieradka of Manville. Both were stopped by Ptl Randy Sutton at 5:30 p.m. Sunday for speeding on Mercer Road near Lovers Lane for which they received a summons.

The speeding stop led to the detection of the marijuana, police said.

HOME IS RANSACKED

On Dodds Lane. A Dodds Lane home was entered between 5:30 and 7:30 p.m. last week and ransacked.

Township police report that camera equipment valued at $956 and an undetermined amount of jewelry were taken. Entry was gained through a rear cellar window.

Det. Frank Boccanfuso and Ptl Anthony Gaylord investigated.

BACK-UP BLAMED

For Boiler Room Fire. A fuel oil back-up has been blamed for a fire last week in a second floor boiler room at the Princeton Medical Center.

All apparatus of the Princeton fire department responded when a general alarm was sounded last Wednesday at 8:40 p.m. The blaze was extinguished by Ptl. Anthony Gaylord of the Township police, who assisted with a patrol car extinguisher. Police report damage to electrical wiring.

Ptl. Gaylord and Ptl. James Vandermark responded to a call Sunday afternoon reporting a kitchen fire at the home of Peter S. Mueller, 182 Snowden Lane.

When they arrived, the fire was out but the first floor was enveloped in heavy smoke. Several plastic knobs on an electric range were still smoldering. Apparently, a burner had been left on, causing a fire that damaged the range and scorched the wall above it. Fifteen firemen and two engines responded as backup.

Earlier in the week, Township police went to a fire call at the home of Gary Nath, 157 Grover Avenue.

Ptl. John Clausen and Ptl.

David Funk extinguished the fire, which was confined to an upstairs bedroom. A bureau and rug were burned.

Seven-year old Glen Nath was alone in the house at the time and he told police that he didn't know what caused the fire.

ENOUGH TO MAKE YOU GLAD YOU'RE ALIVE.

There's great joy to be found in a Christian Science church service.

It comes from getting a clearer idea of God as infinite good, and of man as His image and likeness.

It comes from feeling the power of these ideas in each week's Lesson-Sermon, read from the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook.

It comes from seeing what was hopeless or painful in your experience replaced by the certainty of good.

You can leave the service with a lighter heart... and ready to gladden others, too.

Wrightstown, an employee of the Electric Heat Company of Hightstown, lost the upper half of his thumb last week when it was caught in the chain of a machine.

Mr. Smith was working inside a van parked in the driveway at 37 Laurel Road when the mishap occurred shortly after noon. He was treated at Princeton Medical Center and released. Attempts by the police to locate the missing portion were fruitless.

WOMAN IS MUGGED

In YMCA Lot. A Hopewell woman was mugged and robbed early last Wednesday evening in the parking lot of the YM-YWCA off Paul Robeson Place.

She was confronted by a six-foot man, police said, who pushed her to the ground. He then grabbed her leather shoulder bag and a blue plastic bag containing her ballet clothing before running toward John Street. The shoulder bag contained her purse and $40.

Her assailant was described as thin, wearing a knitted cap and scarf and sneakers. Det. Ronald Holliday will continue the initial investigation by Sgt. Robert Anderson.

A 48-year old Township resident was assaulted at 9:25 Saturday evening as she was walking outside the Thrift Drug Store in the Princeton Shopping Center.

The victim told police she had just parked her car and was walking on a path from the lot to the store when a tall, heavily-built black man walked toward her. They passed each other, she continued, but then she heard him turn around and follow her a short distance. He was wearing heavy-soled shoes or boots, she said.

Without uttering a word, he grabbed the strap on the back of her coat and tried to restrain her. The victim told police that she managed to squirm free, however, and ran the short distance to the drug store.

She described her assailant, who had run off in the opposite direction, as about 6-4, 30 to 35, wearing a black or navy woolen ski cap. He had no facial hair or glasses, she recalled. The victim and store manager were met at the scene by Ptl. Rena Kaminski.

Hit With Baseball Bat. Alfred Jones, 35, 153 Witherspoon Street, told Township police last week that he was assaulted by three men around midnight Thursday while he was walking on Alexander Street.

He was hit in the back with a baseball bat and robbed of approximately $100, he said. Mr. Jones added that he was then beaten on the left side of his body and legs and also punched about the head by one of his assailants.

Two of his assailants, he said, were black, and one was white. All were about 25 and six feet tall. He further described one of the black suspects as 160 to 170 pounds, medium complexion, with an Afro, wearing a plaid shirt and white pants. Ptl. David Funk investigated.

MANY PARTICIPATE

In Snow Removal Project. The Princeton Senior Citizen Snow Removal Project is in full swing with over 500 people participating. Martin P. Lombardo, Borough Councilman, is co-chairman with Pierre Muri.

Library Has Tax Guides

Now that it's income tax time again, the Public Library has set up a display of standard U.S. tax forms and booklets in the adult reference department.

The display includes the CCH "Federal Tax Return Manual," JK Lasser's "Your Income Tax," and the IRS booklets "Your Federal Income Tax" and "Tax Guide for Small Businesses." The Library also has New Jersey State income tax forms and instruction booklets, as well as the CCH "Guidebook to New Jersey Taxes."

Financial contributions have been received from attorneys Mr. and Mrs. George Pellettieri and Thomas Jamieson and from Robert Hillier, architect, and Palmer Square, Inc. George C. Olexa Jr., Borough engineer, has estimated that it would cost the community $1,209.60 every snow storm to meet the present needs of the project, but because of the volunteer spirit and contributions, the total cost to the community will be less than $150.

Mr. Lombardo reported that Princeton regional school officials and principals have been cooperative in helping recruit volunteers, as has Princeton Theological Seminary and students Peter Jessen and Daphne Resch. Suzy Wycoff of Princeton University's biochemistry department has served on the coordinating committee.

The program is open to all senior citizens residing in the Borough or Township who are 60 years and older. Volunteers are assigned to a senior citizen and are responsible for cleaning sidewalks on the senior's property and the porch within 24 daylight hours after the snow has stopped.

There is still a need for additional students and adults who wish to help. They should call Mr. Lombardo at 921-7024.

TALK PLANNED

On William Street Houses. William Street and its historic houses are the subjects of a talk to be given by Peter Waldman, professor of architecture at Princeton University, on Thursday, February 16, at 8 in the Convocation Room of the Engineering Quadrangle. This is the third offering in a series of evening lectures on old houses in Princeton sponsored by the Historical Society.

William Street became the focus of attention last year when Princeton University proposed to demolish the mid-nineteenth-century townhouses located there to make way for its new biology laboratories. Prof. Waldman and several members of the Historical Society were among those whose objections led the University to revise its plans. Four of the condemned houses have now been relocated on a newly-designed mews between Nassau Street and Washington Road.

In the tradition of many of Princeton's older houses, the William Street houses were not built on the sites they occupied until recently. William Street originally ran across what is now part of the campus and ended close to Nassau Hall. The recently moved houses were originally located at the Nassau Hall end of the street, then later moved down the street to make way for the expanding campus.

One of the houses, Number

34, is characteristic of the work of Princeton's noted architect - builder Charles Steadman. It contains an elaborate three-story staircase and other distinguishing architectural embellishments. Admission to the lecture is free, and the public is invited.

SINGLE PARENT?
New Group Formed. A new group of single parents called SPAN -- Single Parents Answering Needs -- will hold a family pot-luck supper Friday, February 17 at 6 p.m. at the YM-YWCA.

After dinner, children will have a chance to participate in a variety of supervised activities while parents discuss possible answers to their common problems.

Those who attend the supper are asked to bring enough of a main dish to serve four. Membership in the "Y" is not required. Additional information about SPAN may be obtained from the YWCA at 924-4825, extension 13.

MERLINO TO SPEAK
To Democrats. State Senator Joseph Merlino, president of the New Jersey State Senate, will discuss the 1978 legislative agenda at the next meeting of the Princeton Community Democratic Organization. It will be held Monday at 8 p.m. at the Unitarian Church.

PCDO has extended an invitation to anyone interested in local politics to attend the meeting.

$45,000 TO MCCARTER

In Foundation Grant. A grant of $45,000 to McCarter will be used to present a classic and to explore new plays, producing director Michael Kahn announced this week.

The grant comes from the Geraldine R. Dodge Foundation, and its terms specify that McCarter must apply $25,000 of the award either to production of a classic from the dramatic repertory, or to the staging of a new play.

McCarter has decided to use the $25,000 toward its spring production of Shakespeare's "Much Ado About Nothing." The remaining $20,500 will underwrite the cost of the theatre's new "Plays - in - Progress" series, a workshop program of readings of six new plays.

The workshop, which will run through this spring, will present playwrights, actors and directors in rehearsal before an audience. It has been designed to help playwrights develop their works for possible major productions. It is hoped that one or two of these works can be included in McCarter's season next year.

The grant both lightens McCarter's immediate financial burden and allows the theatre to continue along experimental lines. At the same time, it helps McCarter fulfill the terms of the Ford Foundation Challenge Grant awarded to the theatre last year. That grant requires that McCarter balance its finances at the end of each fiscal year through 1981 in order to gain unrestricted use of the entire Ford award.

"The Dodge Foundation grant is an important contribution to our whole purpose here," commented Mr. Kahn. "It is a very generous award and gives solid support to our commitment to producing theatre classics as well as new works."

"Theatrical production of any sort these days involves considerable costs," Mr. Kahn continued. "Although actors work for very low salaries, their number cannot be reduced and costumes and scenery are getting more and more expensive. But we still have a commitment to good theatre, to the classics of the past as well as to the new works that are crying out for production and deserve to be done."

cast of 150, all of them eager and full of the kind of enthusiasm that has come to be characteristic of P. J. & B. Mr. Lyon is again directing.

"Brigadoon" will play at McCarter on Thursday, February 16, and will play Friday, Saturday and Sunday with special matinees on Saturday and Sunday.

You'll remember the songs: "It's Almost Like Being in Love," "Come to Me, Bend to Me," "Heather on the Hill." The score is Lerner and Lowe.

THEATRE, DANCE
In University Program. A member of the faculty of Princeton University's program in theatre and dance, will join the students in the program to present "A Concert of Modern Dance" on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, February 24, 25 and 26, in Alexander Hall. Performance time each evening is 8:30.

The staff member is Jim May, who will dance with his wife, Lorry. Both appeared recently on the TV special, "Anna Sokolow: Her Teaching and Choreography."

Student performers and choreographers who will present their work in the concert, study dance at the University under Mr. May, Ze'eva Cohen and Geulah Abrahams.

The evening's program will consist of a "Suite for Pianist and Twelve Dancers" to the music of Schumann's "Scenes from Childhood," with Theresa Patrick as guest piano soloist, "Dance Quintet", choreographed by Ms. Abrahams to live country music played by a string band; "Crickets," by Sat Hon, set to the percussive sounds made by the dancers themselves as they perform and "Peers," with Jim and Lorry May, set to East Indian music.

Tickets will be available at the door the evenings of the performances.

A LONG, LONG SKI
Down Everest. "The Man Who Skied Down Everest" was Yuichiro Miura, and the film of that name records his 1970 expedition to climb up and ski down, the world's highest mountain.

The film -- with a lot of appeal even if you aren't a ski nut, according to McCarter -- will be shown at McCosh 10 this Wednesday and Thursday at 7 p.m. and 8:45 p.m. under the Movies - af - McCarter label

The film has a narration adapted from Miura's own journal, and follows the laborious preparations, the trek to Nepal and the ascent of the mountain. Miura is a 36-year-old world - champion skier, and also a philosopher-poet in the tradition of the orient.

LEAVES ARE BLUE
Intime Play Opens. This Thursday at 8:30 will see the opening of Theatre Intime's production of "The House of Blue Leaves," a comedy with undertones of madness, whose plot turns on the hopeless dreams of ordinary people.

The play, to be given in Murray Theatre, will run this Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, and again next Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Reservations may be made at 452-8181 between 1 and 8 p.m.

It's October 4, 1965, the day the Pope visited New York City. Through various plot developments, that visit brings friends, family and strangers to the Queens apartment of Artie Shaughnessy, a zoo-keeper in the Central Park establishment.

Artie has a wife, appropriately named Bananas, who pretends to be a dog and begs Artie to feed her as he does his zoo animals. Then, there are three nuns, a military policeman, a sanitarium attendant, a Hollywood producer....

Clayton Platt, who appeared last summer in Intime's "Moonchildren," and played twin brothers in last year's "Ring Around the Moon," will play the part of Artie. Laura Ellsworth will be Artie's girlfriend, Bunny and Susan Cayer will be the bananas wife.

Others in the cast are Len Galla, Coco Meyers, David O'Meara, Anne Goodale, Wendy Saivetz, Lucy Mohl, Ted Horton and Noah Levy.

Mr. Purviance is a graduate in music of Westminster Choir College and Temple University. He is on the staff of the Westminster Choir College Conservatory Division.

Their program includes Bach's "Sonata in E Minor," Telemann's "Fantasie in A Minor," Poulenc's "Sonata for Flute and Piano," Faure's "Fantasie," Debussy's "Syrinx" and Chopin's "Phantasie in F Minor."

A VALENTINE SPECIAL

Tuesday at Choir College. A Westminster faculty foursome will present a solo quartet program — a "Valentine Special" — in the Playhouse at Westminster Choir College Tuesday at 8. The public is invited without charge.

Judith Nicosia, soprano, Lois Laverty, mezzo-soprano, Dennis Shrock, tenor, and Robert McIver, bass, accompanied by Marvin Keenze, will sing a program of quartets opening with three madrigals: "Il est bel et bon" of Passereau; "Mon coeur se recommande," Lassus; "Fair Phyllis," Farmer; "El Grillo," Josquin.

The second group will contain four quartets from the sacred literature: "Weib, was weinst du," Schutz; "Recordare" from "Requiem," Mozart; "Schicksalsdenker," Schubert; "O Come, Everyone" from "Elijah," Mendelssohn.

After the intermission, the quartet will sing five secular selections from the classic and romantic periods: "Bered-samkeit," Haydn; "Madrigal," Faure; "Ich bin geliebt," Schumann; "Der Gang zum Liebchen," Brahms; "I Gondolieri," Rossini. The program will end with a light opera medley.

Judith Nicosia, a graduate of Ithaca College and a frequent soloist in the area, attended the International Maurice Ravel Academy to coach with Pierre Bernac. Lois Laverty, a Westminster graduate, is a soloist at All Saints Episcopal Church.

Dennis Shrock is head of the Undergraduate Conducting Program at the College and conductor of the Westminster Oratorio Choir and Chamber Singers. Robert McIver is chairman of Westminster's Opera Workshop. Marvin Keenze was chairman of the vocal area at the University of Delaware before joining the Westminster voice faculty. All five participants currently are members of the Westminster voice faculty.

THREE TO PERFORM

In State Museum. Princeton Music Club Members will perform Handel's cantata "Lucretia" Sunday at 2 and 3 in the New Jersey State Museum Gallery. Cheryl Chang, soprano, will perform the cantata with Joan Thompson, cello, and Clarence Chang, harpsichord.

The cantata is based on the story of Lucretia who killed herself when outraged by King Tarquinius Superbus, after having taken the oath from her husband to drive the Tarquins from Rome in 510 BC. Miss Chang has sung many leading roles with the Princeton Opera and will appear in the premiere of an original musical comedy at Princeton University in April.

Mrs. Thompson has also performed in the area and teaches cello. Mr. Chang has appeared as harpsichord soloist as well as piano accompanist with various groups in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. The program will open with Alessandro Scarlatti's Sonata in C for harpsichord and cello. The concert is open to the public.

CONCERT FRIDAY

At Mercer County College. Mercer County Community College's Performing Arts Department will present the Lyric Quartet in an evening of music and song, on Friday at 8 in the Kelsey Theatre at the MCCC West Windsor Campus.

The Lyric Quartet comprises Amy Cowell, soprano; Kevin Carlson, tenor; Tom Caltabellotta, baritone; and Judith Nitzsche, pianist. They provide a program of vocal and instrumental music, including works by Mozart, Schumann, Verdi, Rossini, Sigmund Romberg, Strauss and Franz Lehar. They have performed on sponsored tours for organizations such as the New York City Department of Cultural Affairs, the New York State Council for the Arts, and Hospital Audiences tours.

General admission for the program is $3 while MCCC students and alumni with I.D. are $1. Senior citizens are admitted free.

SERIES TO BEGIN

Chamber Music at YWCA. The YWCA will present the first in a series of fireside chamber concerts Sunday at 2.

Gino Treves, cello, Dr. Arnold Popkin, piano, Marilyn Reynolds, violin, and Peter Cook, clarinet, will perform works by Beethoven, Mozart and Mendelssohn. Virginia Damon, the former radio, stage and television actress known as Ginger Jones, will give a reading of selected prose and poetry.

Mr. Treves is a research associate for FMC Corp. who studied cello in Italy with the solo cellist of the Virtuosi di Roma quartet. He is principal cellist in the Princeton Community Orchestra.

Dr. Popkin, an ophthalmologist, began studying piano at age 3. He was a pupil of Ellen Sokoloff in Philadelphia and most recently with Mathilde McKinny and was former concert master and soloist

IT'S NEW To Us

A NEW FAMILY

At the Country Mouse. The young couple who are the new owners of The Country Mouse are enthusiastically planning to make a favorite shop more distinctive and charming than ever. Cindy and Bill Bittinger will continue to stock the cards, candles and small gifts so popular with Country Mouse customers and will search out new, unusual, sometimes one-of-a-kind gifts and handcrafted items that will add to the shop's appeal. All will be moderately priced.

Both Cindy and Bill come from families where art and antiques were appreciated, so all renovations and gift selections will be made with a practiced eye and a listening ear, tuned to the wishes of customers. Both have taught at high schools and have a special understanding and enjoyment of young people. Parents of a 19-month old daughter, they also understand some of the problems of parenting — such as trying to get a stroller down the steps to The Country Mouse, and will run out and help.

Cindy will be in the store part time as salesperson and buyer. Bill, who has a position in New York, will be able to shop the supply houses on his lunch hour and help with the shop's bookkeeping and refurbishing, evenings and weekends. Edie Martin and Toos Van Genuchten are the pleasant, helpful salespeople who complete the staff.

Cards and Candles will continue to be the mainstays at The Country Mouse and a wide selection of each will be offered. All-occasion cards by Gordon Fraser, Caspari, Panda Prints, and of course, The Country Mouse, are on hand.

Paw Prints are on order. Valentines by Gordon Fraser are pretty and romantic.

Gift Wrapping Paper in a variety of patterns — petite, spring-like florals, designs from quilts, a reproduction of a lively Pieter Brueghel painting—are by Caspari and Gordon Fraser.

Post Cards and Note Cards are nostalgic reproductions from yesteryear and include Kate Greenaway prints, scenes from Currier and Ives, Victorian valentines decorated with "hot gold."

Colonial Candles with a tapered or Williamsburg top are very much in demand for dinner candles. Classic in style, they are non-drip, slow burning, available in many colors and sell for 10 percent less by the dozen. Twelve inch candles are 60 cents each or $6.98 a dozen; sixteen inch candles, 80 cents each or $8.64 a dozen.

Twist Candles by Lenox come in every length and in some lovely new shades to round out the spectrum — maize, Williamsburg blue and celadon green, as well as hard to find navy and walnut brown. These are 10 percent less by the dozen, also.

Column Candles in various heights, colors and scents, tiny tapers or pillars, many colors, room scents — fragrant with vanilla, bayberry, orange, etc. are all part of the large assortment. A spicy candle in a glass and wicker holder is $4 a set.

Small Gifts — Kate Greenaway tea sets, $1.20; mice dressed like cowboys, babies in diapers, or a Valentine girl are $3; mice bookmarks with long furry tails, 75 cents. Small square boxes, hand-painted with hearts hold a candle, are Swedish and $3.50. Small brass candle snuffers, topped with a heart or a star are $2.50.

Beatrix Potter illustrations in pastels are framed and decorated with dainty flowered braid or ribbon. These one-of-a-kind pictures are ideal for a small child's room and priced from $6 to $10.

Jewelry — Teen-agers like the jewelry at The Country Mouse and the cases are stocked with things to please them. The latest fad is to wear three earrings at a time — two on one ear — one on the other.

A real bargain in earrings for pierced ears are "Super Studs," hearts, flowers, stars, fleur de lis in gold or silver — six pairs on a card for $3. "Nothing" necklaces — plain chains — also come in wrist and anklet sizes.

Valentine Jewelry is presented on a tray for easy selection — silver rings with hearts and flower motifs, entwined hearts or heart and arrow necklaces, enameled bands with heart designs, priced from $1 to $8.

Posters and Prints — Kindergraphics are amusing posters of dressed up animals playing hockey, golf, chess, enjoyed by young people. Matted prints by Andrew Wyeth and Carl Larsson, a Swedish artist, are especially popular for students' rooms. A collection of mats without prints provides the opportunity to frame your favorite.

The Country Mouse, located at 164 Nassau Street, is open 9:30 - 5:30 every day except Sunday.

GEMS PAR EXCELLENCE

At Morigi. Gilda Morigi is a writer, an artist, a designer of jewelry — an attractive young woman who has made an intense study of gemstones. Lured by their glamor and fascination, she has surrounded herself with "the most beautiful jewels in the world," at her shop, Morigi, and thinks and talks gemstones with customers, collectors, and the jewelry trade, every day.

A qualified gemmologist, she has spoken before many groups — museums, clubs, radio audiences, even aboard ships — but the shop takes precedence. Here, she can do what she considers her most important work — the initiation of the public into the intricacies and mysteries of gemstones.

Gemstone Identification. A gemstone is not a piece of glass. Gemstones have a crystal structure; glass is amorphous, with no developed structural organization. Every natural gemstone has natural inclusions that take the form of gases, crystals, rutile or other small particles of minerals.

These inclusions identify a gemstone as fingerprints identify a person — so that it can be proven irrevocably yours, forever. As new synthetics are developed into clever copies of gemstones, these identifying inclusions become even more important.

Classification. Properties of gemstones can be tested in order to classify them — to tell a garnet from a ruby, or a piece of jade from a green garnet — with the use of a polariscope, dichroscope, specific gravity fluids or liquids, microscopes, long and short wave ultraviolet, and Morigi can provide this service of classifying and appraisal.

Selection and Setting. Morigi's selection of gemstones and jewelry is comparable to any in New York or Philadelphia. The shop has every kind of jewelry — modern, ethnic, finest precious stones, cameos, abalone shells, cloisonne, malachite, chrysoprase, ivory, plus all the opaque stones that come from quartz — agates, jasper, banded agate, rose quartz, tiger eyes, bloodstones, carnelians.

Princetonians who like the natural and real will find only authentic gemstones at Morigi, most of them from Brazil, and can choose uncut gems or gems that are already cut, polished and ready to be set and enjoyed.

Gemstone settings that give superlative display to the jewels and enhance the wearer are chosen from stock illustrations or expertly designed by Gilda Morigi, herself. A goldsmith or silversmith, chosen by Morigi, creates the finished piece.

Gemstones as Investments. An investment in a really fine piece of jewelry will bring a lifetime of pleasure and enjoyment to the wearer and become a treasured heirloom that increases in value over the years. Gilda Morigi advises: "When you buy gemstones, get the best for the money you have to invest. Ask your jeweler for a guarantee or have an appraisal made for a small fee."

Excellent investments right now are diamonds — trouble in South Africa has limited mining; pearls — red tide has destroyed oyster beds; kunzite, a lilac pink or lilac blue gemstone — mines in Brazil have become depleted.

Estate Jewelry. Morigi has gorgeous pieces of estate jewelry from India, once the cherished possessions of maharajahs and maharanees. They are traditional and formal like the crown jewels worn by royalty and absolutely breathtaking to behold. All are priced in the luxury category, excellent investments and stunning to wear for great occasions.

Popularly-priced Jewelry. A selection of jewelry for the young people in town, priced from $2.25 up, includes sterling silver earrings, necklaces, ethnic jewelry from Afghanistan, India and Thailand, stickpins in sterling silver or 14k or 18k gold. Most fascinating of all is the mobile and tinkling jewelry — anklets of many little trembling pieces, helts with dangles, earrings that quiver.

Valentine Special. Morigi is offering a 40 percent reduction on precious stone rings in 14k and 18k gold. This is a fine bargain as pure gold has risen in price to $175 to $180 an ounce.

Mineral specimens are being sold for 40 percent less, also. Gathered from all over the world, they are nature's own sculpture, especially suited to contemporary settings. Choose a piece of rose quartz, amethyst with small Alaskan epidote, quartz embedded with tourmalines, all have a beauty that attracts interest and attention.

Morigi is located at 16 Witherspoon Street. Shop hours are 10-5 daily. Closed Wednesday and Sunday.

Mr. Duffield was born in Princeton and lived here all his life. His service at Princeton spanned 56 years, beginning with his first summer job in 1905 at age 13 when he helped move books into Pyne Library, then being completed. The following summer he returned to stay, beginning as a shelver and rising in later years to hold several supervisory and administrative positions.

As technical assistant to the librarian, he devoted all of his time to the planning of the new, larger Firestone Memorial Library. When the library collection was moved to that building in 1948, Mr. Duffield assumed the position he held until his retirement. He was a member of the Patriotic Order of Sons of America.

He is survived by his wife, the former Margaret Lewis Drake; and three nieces, Miss Marie Stone of Princeton, Mrs. Joan Froehlich of Princeton Junction and Mrs. Dorothy Pierson of Trenton.

The service was held at the Mather Funeral Home, Dr. Wallace Alston and Dr. William Tucker of Nassau Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial was in Princeton Cemetery.

Salary Adjustment Backed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
The Princeton Public Library serves a vital, essential and delightful need for the entire community. The staff is dedicated, efficient and helpful to all.

We were disappointed to read of the rejection of an adjustment in salary for the staff with living costs spiraling as they are.

We would like to prevail upon the Borough Council and the Township Committee to vote in favor of the staff at their next meeting.

Public Awareness Urged.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

If there was ever a time when public interest should be served and citizens should become involved, it is now.

Princeton Borough Council has passed a resolution which would allow recombinant DNA research at the P-3 level in this community and is now drafting an ordinance to establish your role in the ongoing decision-making process regarding such research.

From this basic working tool the will and the ability of the community to govern itself will come and public policy regarding DNA research will be made. Democracy gives you a role in that process.

There will be a meeting in the immediate future to determine the details of the ordinance. Call Borough Hall for time and date.

Background material, including the Joint Bio-Hazard Committee Report of June 1977 and copies of the draft ordinance, should be available at Borough Hall.

DIANE GRAVES

A Stake for Everyone.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

As Princeton Borough Council deliberates the pros and cons of a tight local ordinance governing the controversial recombinant DNA research, it is important to remember that you, the citizen, have a significant stake in the ordinance.

The impacts of this research will be far-reaching, both in the knowledge gained from it and in the use to which that knowledge is put. It has already been felt in your pocketbook in the millions of dollars of grant money already designated by federal funding for DNA proposals. It will be felt in the mostly unknown effects on the future of your biosphere. It will bring increasingly complex medical and moral decisions to bear on your life and your society.

Borough Council voted to delay approval for recombinant DNA research on the P-

3 level for six months to a year in June of 1977. The Council charged itself with the task of weighing evidence from other communities facing the DNA question. To my knowledge, none was asked for, none was gained.

It was unfortunate that Mayor Cawley inferred that the delay caused by Borough Councils vote was somewhat of an embarrassment to him. He spoke of the "forbearance" of Princeton University, suggesting that perhaps the delay was a matter of gentlemanly good manners on the part of the University. It was, in fact, required by law. No federal funding could legally accrue to the university for recombinant DNA research without the specific permission of the community in which that work would be done.

Pressured by the University, which is anxious to apply for a building permit to construct a P-3 facility in its new Bio-Chemistry building (at present under construction) and to apply for federal funding for recombinant DNA proposals, Councilman William Seldon drew up a resolution for approval.

Certainly, in this community which has a long history of involvement in affairs of national and international import, there are citizens who view this issue as worthy of their talents.

A public meeting to discuss and determine the final ordinance is imminent. The best we have should be brought to bear on it.

'Thank You' from Red Cross.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross wishes to express its sincere thanks to those in the Princeton area who responded to our appeal for funds to help the victims of the severe flooding in northern New Jersey and on Staten Island which occurred on Election Day of last year. The goal assigned to us by the National Red Cross as our share of the costs of the Red Cross services rendered to those in need was $4,718.

A total of $4,632 was contributed through the chapter, and in order to send as much money as possible we determined not to spend any of the funds on acknowledgments and receipts. On behalf of those who needed the help, we do say "Thank you."

Princeton Regional School HIGHLIGHTS

(The following information was researched and written by members of the Regional Schools PTO Council, and the opinions expressed are not those of TOWN TOPICS.)

SECONDARY SCHOOL (high school) education throughout the United States is being scrutinized, probed and evaluated by educators, citizens and students themselves. Reports range from "pointing with pride" to "viewing with alarm." What's the Princeton stance? The Board of Education has joined many other communities by authorizing a full speed ahead approach to a comprehensive study of PHS. The main points of the project are to look at the organization, the program and the student body in order to see how appropriate the current system is for a PHS student. The two basic questions to be answered are "How should PHS look?" and "How does it look at present?"

The study comes at a convenient time for all, preparations for the Fall 1978 Middle States Association Evaluation means that in-depth research will serve two purposes - staff, students and community members will get double mileage from their findings. Currently there are weekly Wednesday sessions studying all aspects of PHS from the philosophical to the physical! Long range plans for keeping PHS up - to - date, not only in the plant, but also in programs, curriculum, activities, educational goals and methods of teaching and learning will conclude the study. Progress reports will come to the public through HIGHLIGHTS - as will pleas for the public's help and/or understanding in the task.

WHERE IN the world did you come from?

It's not hard to tell if you are standing in the CP foyer. A large world map pinpoints (with shiny silver thumbtacks) the country of origin of many CP students. A string connects the country with its name and flag; where they are available, small "bean-bag" stuffed dolls in native costume enliven the space still further.

DO UNTO OTHERS is a golden rule in many religions and cultures. Prints done for the PTO Council years ago are on a traveling exhibit in the schools. Presently they are hung in the CP hallway, if you're on your way to a meeting or activity there, spend a few extra moments enjoying them. Other schools will be sharing the display this spring, watch this column for scheduling information.

MATHLETES is the name for an after - school group of interested grade 6 - 8 mathematicians from JW. Plans are being made for projects with the help of school staff and interested professional community members.

RIVERSIDE School keeps a good program going - even with personnel changes. A class, known as "Little Gym" by students and as adaptive physical education by professionals, was initiated by Mrs. Mildred Swartz, it is an additional program for children who need extra help in motor coordination. Miss Cathy Hellwege has continued this project in '77 - '78 following Mrs. Swartz' retirement. But Mrs. Swartz is back too - as a volunteer. She works with K-1 classes weekly on a regularly scheduled basis.

ONCE AGAIN, with feeling WHWH (1350) will announce school closings by 7:00 a.m., delayed openings mean everything - including busses - are one and one - half hours later than normal. Change in status because of continuing bad conditions will be broadcast. Early closing hour is 1:00 - similar to the current Wednesday schedule - and will be aired by WHWH during mid - morning hours. Elementary school PTOs will try to alert parents through a "telephone tree" if and when a shortened day is necessary.

FROM SPAIN: Suzanne Valedon and Miguel Utrillo as painted by Santiago Rusinol are among the many studies of the habitués of Els Quatre Gats, now on display at the Princeton University Art Museum.

ART

In Princeton

FROM A TAVERN

A Multi-Faceted Exhibit, Els Quatre Gats represents a place, an era and a point of view. Els Quatre Gats was the name of a tavern opened by four artists in Barcelona near the end of the 19th century.

It immediately became a focus for Catalan artistic and literary activity of the period. It was the source of much artistic ferment and, within its group of regulars, gave birth to a variety of artistic and literary projects including several small journals that supported and complemented the modernista movement. It was the scene of many art exhibitions, including Pablo Picasso's first public showing.

Els Quatre Gats was also the vehicle through which knowledge of the great artistic upheavals taking place in Paris made its way to Spain. Many of the artists that were regular habitués of the tavern spent part of their time in Paris working and exhibiting. They brought with them, through their art and the social interaction at the tavern, the major French artistic and literary currents to create an avant-garde movement that was distinctly Catalan.

The diverse arts created during the fertile years when Els Quatre Gats was host to the modernistas and their young followers are now on display at the Princeton University Art Museum. The exhibition is a multi-faceted one which successfully recreates the dynamism that was a result of the interaction of the many artistic endeavors that found their inspiration at the tavern.

Photographs of the tavern and its habitués are accompanied by posters, periodicals, sheet music illustrations and other commercial ventures of the artistic population. Etchings, drawings and a great many paintings are also included.

Although Picasso was the only member of the group to go on to great international fame, the companion pieces by other painters and print-makers are equally exciting. Although many of the displayed artists never developed the reputation of their compatriot, the high quality of the included works makes us ponder the mequities of fame. Paintings by Canals, Casas, Rusinol and Pichot among others offer riches equal to those of their more famous contemporaries.

Three Photographers. Since the first image was recorded on glass, each generation of photographers has extended the expressive possibilities to be found within the medium. The small lens of the camera has been applied in an ever expanding manner to tell a story, create a form of visual poetry, and to provide thoughtful combinations of images and light. The current display of the work of Brett Weston, Gary Winogrand and Jerry Uelsmann demonstrates the diversity of both content and form that is to be found in the contemporary photograph.

The Winogrand photographs are visual journalism. They offer views of society presented in a manner which transcends the superficial situation. People and their surroundings, caught at the telling moment, provide insightful representations of such diverse happenings as the Texas State Fair, The Metropolitan Museum Centennial Ball and the American Legion Convention.

Weston deals with the rhythms and shadows of the landscape using the camera to present the cadences and counterpoint to be found in nature. The photograph is used to express the richness of patterns and harmonies that are not readily apparent to most of us but become clearer when seen through Weston's lens.

Jerry Uelsmann uses the photograph to convert the familiar into the surreal. He manipulates positive and negative images, and rearranges the landscape while maintaining the integrity of the photograph. We are spared the sense of gimmickry that is often present in this type of work and are, instead, presented intricate offerings that demand thoughtful consideration.

Flaxman Drawings

Although we are presented with line drawings, it becomes immediately apparent that their creator, John Flaxman, was a sculptor. The collection of simple, delicate renditions of classical figurative subjects and cartoons of monuments and statuary are embodied with a sculptural quality created by a strong sense of volume and mass although they are rendered in fine, eloquent line. The wash drawings give the impression of being modeled in the manner of sculpture.

We are told that these sketches were constructed beginning with line, with tonal washes then added to create depth and heighten the forms. The drawings are accompanied by outline engravings which are also rendered with a simplicity of line that becomes richly expressive.

At McCarter Theatre, The Princeton Art Association's "Very Special Invitation Show" offers viewers a collection of prints, paintings and multi-media works that provide first-rate examples of a profusion of styles and techniques. Twenty-one artists, including several whose works are not often displayed here, have submitted woodcuts, intaglio prints, collages, drawings, collographs, lithographs, watercolor and oil paintings to provide a varied and pleasurable collection of art work. Variety of surface, profusion of good color and a diversity of expressive modes combine to create the kind of visual interaction that provides a stimulating and thoughtful viewing experience.

Although the majority of the works in this display employ traditional imagery, in almost all cases the presentation is creative and the artists deal expressively with their subject matter. Landscape, nature forms, architectural themes and the human form are used as vehicles for dealing with color, space and surface to resolve successfully content and form. There is, however, enough fine work that has dispensed with the familiar image, to provide a collection that is well balanced.

This collection is characterized by technical virtuosity. The included graphics offer a great many different approaches to color and pattern. Highly sophisticated multi-color printmaking methods are used in many of the works.

—Helen Schwartz

Here's an amazing sports question ... What man was able to make baseball's Hall of Fame as a pitcher even though he had a physical handicap on his PITCHING HAND? ... He was one of the most courageous athletes of all-time ... His name was Mordecai Brown, who, as a little boy, lost 2 fingers on his right hand in an accident ... Despite that handicap on his pitching hand, he became a star right-handed pitcher in the major leagues for 14 years ... He won 229 games, and pitched his way into the Hall of Fame!

2-Point Upset at Hands of Columbia Takes Princeton Quintet Out of Post-Season Play

*The bucket's got a hole in it,
I said, the bucket's got a hole in it,
Yeah, man, the bucket's got a hole in it,
And we can't buy no more beer!*

—Dixieland Classic
Sung by Louis Armstrong

Battered and beaten in a way that no one had imagined possible when the season began, Princeton's basketball team last week finally sprang an irreparable leak. All faint hope of a berth in the NCAA or the NIT tournaments drained out of the hole in the bucket, and there will be no triumphant post-season party with beer or champagne or anything else flowing.

When the Tigers lost to Columbia, 38-36, Friday, for the first time in seven years, the season wound down with a whimper. It did not, fortunately, end with a bang: a telephoned bomb threat resulted in an order by University Preceptor Jim Kopliner to empty Jadwin Gym until a search of the principal area could be made. Nearly 40 minutes after the call was received (on a phone maintained by Columbia station WKCR), remnants of the crowd filed back in from the 10-degree cold and the last four minutes and 22 seconds were played.

Shot From 25 Feet Out Wins. The unwelcome intermission (first of its kind in well over a century of Princeton athletic history) served neither to spark a Princeton rally nor to diminish the Tigers' defensive lapses. Trailing 34-30, at the time, they did manage to deadlock the contest at 36, their last two points coming with 45 seconds left on a pair of free throws by Frank Sowinski. But when the Lions wound down the clock and a little-used reserve guard, Gene Bentz, hit on a 25-foot jumper, no one had a hand in his face.

It was the only shot Bentz took in his seven minutes of action, and it was dead on center. Asked why a substitute with a 30 percent floor average got the ball for the decisive shot, Columbia coach Tom Penders had a logical answer: "He's great from outside -- all he misses are layups."

The Tigers dug their own grave with a variety of errors. In the slow-paced contest, where the good shot was essential, they hit on only 47 percent of their field goal attempts, where the victors connected on 60 percent, a number of them layups in sharp contrast to the losers' inability to penetrate Columbia's varying defenses. Sowinski and Bob Roma had a combined performance of 5 for 19 -- 26 percent.

In the close - contact action, Princeton drew 19 personals to a mere 10 for Columbia, which left the floor after beating the Tigers at their own game. The 74 points on the board represented the lowest total posted by two teams since Jadwin opened 11 years ago. The Tigers equalled a Princeton mark that must have gone unmatched in a quarter - century or more when they failed to place anyone in double figures. Sowinski's 9 (on 3 for 12 shooting and three fouls) were the top performance.

Columbia led by 20-17 at the half and by as many as 10 (29-19) before the home team rallied, but never managed to take the lead. Without the services of its all-Ivy guard, 5-8 Alton Byrd, because of an ankle injury for the past six weeks, the Lions are no better than 7-10. They are a far better team with Byrd, but they are not good enough to win in Jadwin from a Princeton team that was ready to play take-charge basketball.

Cornell Fades in Second Half. Good enough to lead Penn, 38-36, after the first half at the Palestra Friday, Cornell trailed here by only 33-28 at the intermission, but could not meet the pace in the final 20 minutes. With 10 minutes of the second period gone, the Orange and Black had staged a torrid 27-8 burst, the disgruntled Ithacans had picked up a pair of technicals for disagreeing with the officiating, and the outcome had long since been decided.

Sowinski returned to form, hitting on 8 of 10 floor shots and making all 9 free throws for 25 points. Roma followed with 14 and 6-11 Tom Young delighted the crowd with a point-a-minute performance during the 10 minutes he was allotted. In contrast to their troubles with Columbia, Sowinski and Roma combined for 15 for 20 -- a 75.0 shooting average.

The Tiger defense shut down on Cornell so completely that the Red managed only 22 points in the second half, even though the last five minutes saw Tiger reserves on the floor. Mike Davis, a 6-5 sophomore forward on whom Cornell is very high, was held to eight points, after having made 28 against Penn the night before.

The Red is, however, a part of the Ivy League's immediate future. In contrast to Penn and Princeton, who will graduate considerable strength, Cornell hasn't a senior on its squad and figures to be a contender in next year's race for the first time in more than a decade.

—Donald C. Stuart

Of the three trips, the first should be the easiest for the struggling Tigers, whose 9-9 record already includes more losses than any Princeton team has sustained in the last four years. Both Brown and Yale are far below the .500 mark overall, and both -- like

Princeton -- have been beaten in league play on their own court.

No better than 6-20 last winter, Brown lost six lettermen, including Brian Saunders, who scored more

ROAD TRIPS AHEAD

For Tigers in Basketball. Only two more home games remain on the schedule for Princeton's basketball team, those with Brown and Yale on February 24 and 25. As the Tigers complete the season, hoping to finish no worse than second, they will face the Bruins and the Elis away this weekend, will journey to New England again the following week for return games with Dartmouth and Harvard, and then will finish on the road in early March against Cornell and Columbia.

Yale and Brown to Face Princeton Hockey Team This Weekend In First of Six Ivy League Contests Scheduled for Baker Rink

Having played all six of its Ivy opponents away from home before it got a shot at any of them in Baker Rink, Princeton's steadily improving hockey team will now meet them all here during the course of the next four weekends.

Ticket - buying in advance may well prove advisable; herewith the schedule, including the non - league contests on February 24 and 25, the only ones for which seats are not reserved:

- Fri., Feb. 10 - Yale
- Sat., Feb. 11 - Brown
- Fri., Feb. 17 - Dartmouth
- Sat., Feb. 18 - Harvard
- Fri., Feb. 24 - Clarkson
- Sat., Feb. 25 - St. Lawrence
- Tue., Feb. 28 - Penn
- Fri., Mar. 3 - Cornell

Of the Ivies, the Tigers have beaten Dartmouth, 4-3, and tied Penn at 2. They lost by rather convincing margins to Yale and Brown in December, but in the last two weeks have barely been edged by Cornell, 7-6, and Harvard, 2-1. Since these two, along with Brown, are the front - runners, there is widespread hope that the Orange and Black will at least break even in the last half of its league schedule. A game with Army was on the schedule Tuesday night - too late for inclusion in this week's issue of TOWN TOPICS

After having scored 26 goals in its four games prior to playing Harvard at Cambridge Saturday night, Princeton managed only one against the Crimson but very nearly came away with at least a tie on the strength of a fine defensive effort. It was close last winter, too - 5-4 for Harvard in overtime - but the narrow losses lengthened to 28 the number of years since Princeton last won at Cambridge.

Cherne in Top Form. Playing its first game in three weeks, Harvard moved out to a 1-0 lead in the opening period. Freshman Dave Tweedy brought the Tigers even at 7:21 of the middle round but that was the extent of their scoring ability. The Crimson got the tie - breaker at 11:03 of the third period as Cherne was credited with 20 saves and now ranks as the sixth best goalie in the East with a 3.99 goals - against average.

Last week was marked by an 8-0 triumph over Colgate, Coach Jim Higgins' former place of abode. Obviously eager to show what their new coach had taught them, the Tigers took 56 shots at the visitors. None of them went in during the first 20 minutes, but four of them did in the second period and four more in the third.

The line of Trevor Kilburn, John Van Sielen and Cliff Lawrick was responsible for five of the goals, Lawrick and Kilburn each getting two and Van Sielen and Kilburn adding three assists apiece. The shutout was the first of Cherne's career and Princeton's first in six years. The victory marked the first time in three winters that Princeton has won three in a row.

Yale Much Improved. Yale's hockey team, here Friday, has accomplished a major turnaround in the first half of its season. The eight victories the Elis recorded in their first 19 games are two more than they won all last year, and their 4-4 split in Ivy action to date represents their highest league total since 1973. Among the Ivy triumphs is a 3-2 overtime conquest of Cornell and third - ranked Boston College has been a surprising 10-7 victim.

A fine freshman class has meant much to the Blue, which lists first - year wing Paul Castraheri as its leading scorer. In all, there are 11 members of the Class of 1981 on the Yale roster.

Brown, which will host the NCAA Tournament starting March 23, is anxious to be in it, and should make the eight - team eastern playoffs at the end of the regular schedule. The Bruins ran into unexpected trouble, however, when they were tied Saturday night, 3-3, by last - place Penn at Providence.

Rick Scully, Jim Bennett and Dave Roberts are the leading point - producers for the Bruins, who will follow Yale into Baker Rink. Both games will begin at 7:30. Last year, Brown was 16-11 overall and missed by one point gaining a tie for the Ivy title with Cornell.

Ivy points in the last two seasons than anyone else. They are also without a good guard in Chuck Mack, who required three leg operations after being struck by a car, and is out of college for a year.

Only one of five returning lettermen was a starter last winter, and the Bruins are depending largely on strength from last season's 14-4 freshmen. They are a dismal 3-11 on the season but one of those triumphs was a victory over Columbia at Providence.

Yale, 6-9 to date, is like

Cornell -- not a single senior figures in its rebuilding plans. A pair of sophomores, Frank Maturo and Larry Zigerelli, are starting in the back court and classmate Andy Fleming, 6-8, is the center. Junior Captain Jim Yent and Tony Curry are the forwards.

In common with every other sport at New Haven save football, basketball rarely reaches the break-even point. The Elis have not fielded a first-division team in Ivy play since 1968, and last were a contender for the title when Princeton beat them in a playoff five years earlier.

The place: Fordham's gymnasium in the Bronx. The score, Princeton 65, Yale 53. One of the Tigers' top players that night was a sophomore named Bill Bradley.

PHS VS. PDS

After Hightstown Loss. Somewhere between a bomb scare, seven players fouling out, three technicals and the fact that both teams were wearing the same color uniforms, Princeton and Hightstown managed to play a basketball game Friday.

Like their Princeton University counterparts, the Little Tigers had a bomb scare. And like the University, PHS lost, 68-62. In overtime.

School Loses Track Meet When Anchor Man Crosses Line and Tosses Baton to Coach

The Princeton High School winter track team, coached by Mare Anderson, won the Colonial Valley Conference season championship last week, when it defeated defending champion Hightstown, 42-35. The Little Tigers are 4-0, while the Rams ended 3-1.

The Rams had apparently won the event when they took the final event, the mile relay in 3:38.4 to Princeton's 3:38.9. But Howard Fiderer, the Ram anchor man, was disqualified when, in his enthusiasm, he tossed the baton to his coach, Bob Parker.

Such an action is not allowed in scholastic track meets and PHS was declared the winner. "It was a violation and the ruling gives no discretion," explained starter-referee Frank Galloway. Running the mile relay for PHS were Bob Wyland, Andy Logan, Bill Ogilvie and Jon Miller. The meet was held at Lawrenceville School's Lavino Field House.

Sophomore John Kellogg led a PHS sweep of the mile in 4:44.2 and captured the two-mile with a clocking of 10:24.7. Teammate Steve Doig was second in the two-mile with a clocking of 10:27.7 and third in the mile. Another Little Tiger, Bill Ogilvie was second in the mile with 4:44.5, 3 of a second behind Kellogg.

Logan ran the high hurdles in 8.2 to win that event (Bernie Chen was third with 8.6) and Miller won the 880 with a time of 2:05.5, Ogilvie taking a third two seconds behind.

Logan and Jim Houghton each cleared 5-4 in the high jump to finish second and third behind the Rams' Fiderer (5-10), while Paul Hoad took a second in the shot put with 66-7, one inch behind winner Larry Mallis of Hightstown.

There will be no respite for the Little Tigers, who are mired in a 3-14 season. They will oppose crosstown rival Princeton Day School Thursday night at 8 in the PDS gym and then play host to West Windsor Friday evening at 8. Tuesday evening, they will be at Notre Dame. The latter two contests are Colonial Valley Conference games.

Princeton was leading Hightstown by six points when the Rams' athletic director walked on to the court to announce quietly that the school had received a bomb threat. There were 33 seconds left in the third period.

The spectators and the players, dressed in their warmup suits, filed out into the cold. After a delay of about 20 minutes, play was resumed. But the damage had been done. The tempo of the game had changed to Princeton's disadvantage.

In the final minutes, the game deteriorated into a foul shooting contest. Seven players fouled out in the physical contest, including Peter Sharpless, Sean Tobin and John Sapoch from Princeton. Hightstown connected for 22 points from the free-throw line, Princeton for 14.

Two of those 14 came with less than a minute to play by Kevin Robinson of PHS and forced the game into overtime. In the overtime, Ron Yarish sank five foul shots — his only points of the game to pace the Rams, who outscored PHS 9-3 in the extra period.

Trotman Erupts, With four seconds to go, PHS coach Marv Trotman exploded like the bomb that wasn't found. As Kim Beasley drove in for a layup and scored, the Ram defender hit the backboard hard with his hand, which is illegal.

Trotman insisted the player be given a technical. Instead, Trotman, who had been hit by a T earlier in the game, received two more for arguing too long and too loud. Gary Kilpatrick's explanation to Trotman: the backboard had to be vibrating for it to be a technical.

Both teams appeared on the court in blue and white uniforms after Hightstown reported that its home-team white uniforms had been stolen. At one point, a PHS player handed the ball to a player next to him only to discover to his dismay it was a Hightstown player. "It was straining," said a PHS fan. Ironically, both top scorers for PHS, senior Mike Buschini, who had 18 points, and freshman Peter Sharless, who had 16 to tie his season's high, were suffering from the flu. Kevin Robinson added nine for PHS. Hightstown (6-9) placed four double figures, getting 18 from Arthur Jackson.

HUN STRING STOPPED

By Germantown, 83-81. It wasn't the 13th win that proved to be unlucky for the Hun School basketball team; it was the 15th.

Coach Dave Leete knew that was going to be tough Friday in trying to top a good Germantown Friends quintet which had won 11 of its first 14 games, especially in its small gym. Down by 11 points with a minute to go, Hun rallied behind the shooting of Ron Payton and Pete Black to close within one.

"We had a shot at it. We had the ball with eight seconds to go but they picked off one of our passes and that was it," said Hun coach Dave Leete. Germantown prevailed, 83-81, to increase its league record to 5-1.

"They were quick; they played their gym very well. They have a great home court advantage, to say the least," added Leete.

Following its 68-55 victory over Solebury on Sunday, Hun is now 15-2 and 3-1 in the league. "I can't see anybody defeating Germantown in the league," said Leete. The top four finishers in the league engage in a playoff for the league championship at the end of regular-season play.

In Sunday's makeup game with Solebury (9-5), Payton fired in 28 points and Black 17 to lead Hun. Craig Darvin added 10. Terry Polnitz matched Payton's 28 for Solebury, but the loser's top scorer, Esker Tatum, was held to 12 points. Huo outscored Solebury, 17-10, in the final period to seal the win.

In the Germantown loss, Payton hit for 16 of his 30 points in the final period but it just wasn't enough to offset the balanced scoring of the Quakers. Vinnie Ross led the victors with 21.

In games this week, Hun will play host to Perkiomen this Wednesday afternoon at 3:30 and to Friends Central Friday evening at 7:45.

UNBEATEN STRING ENDS

For PHS Wrestlers, Princeton High's hope for its first undefeated wrestling season ended Saturday — a tantalizing 48 seconds away from a victory.

Instead, when Delran heavyweight Mike Kadelski pinned PHS substitute Mike Henninger in 5:12, the home team won a 26-24 victory. "We had a lot of opportunities; it just wasn't our day," said PHS coach Tom Murray.

"Disappointed? Sure, I'd be lying if I said I wasn't thinking about winning all of them at this stage," Murray acknowledged. "But not discouraged," he added.

"It's one of those unfortunate things you can't control. I said at the beginning if we stayed healthy and had no injuries we'd be okay. We have a good team but it's no secret we have no depth. If we lose anybody along the line, it hurts us deeply."

What Murray couldn't control was the flu. On the morning of the match, he said that he received five phone calls from members of the team reporting they were suffering from various stages of the flu.

Heavyweight Geoff Shipman couldn't wrestle. Undefeated Keith Wadsworth could hardly talk, reported Murray. In addition, Matt Wilkinson and Gary Carnevale were below par.

In spite of a less than healthy squad, the Little Tigers almost won the match with Delran (8-5). There were several key matches. That is what made it so tantalizing.

For example in the opening match, sophomore Bruce Cobb had to face Delran's Harry Foy, 15-0 this season and 17-2-1 last year. The match ended 6-6 but Foy was

The Peugeot Diesel: An economy car for the self-indulgent.

Our Peugeot Diesel has much the same headroom and legroom as you'd find in a full-size luxury car. It comes with luxuries like power-assisted rack and pinion steering, four-wheel power disc brakes, fully reclining front bucket seats, two-stage metallic paint, a sliding sunroof, and four-wheel independent suspension for a smooth, stable ride — all as standard equipment. And now an optional three-speed automatic transmission.

But this incredibly luxurious car also gives you the economy of a diesel engine. You won't need any tune-ups. Just change the oil and filter by the book.

You won't need many fill-ups, either, because the Peugeot Diesel gets 35 mpg highway and 28 mpg city, according to EPA estimates.* And to top it off, diesel fuel nationally averages about 9¢ less per gallon than gasoline.†

So come in for a test drive. Because with a Peugeot Diesel, you can indulge yourself. And tell your friends you're just being practical.

awarded a point for riding time.
"It was a helluva match," said Murray

Pin Eludes Schulman. Perhaps the biggest disappointment, Murray reported, came in the 129-pound match, where Joel Schulman had Delran's Jim Cannone on his back "for almost a minute and the official just didn't see the pin. It was another situation which would have given us the win." Schulman had to settle for a 10-3 decision.

At 135 pounds, Bob Schmidt of PHS laced once - defeated Jim Bych and lost a superior decision which earned Delran a crucial five - points. "We never expected that," said Murray

At 148 pounds, Gary Carnevale was losing 8-7 when he tried a roll and got pinned. Another "if" that went against PHS.

As it was, Princeton's big three of Wilkinson, Wilson and Wadsworth, all remained undefeated, as each increased his personal record to 13-0. Wilkinson pinned Scott Carnew in 3:09 at 108 pounds; Wilson decisioned Frank Cassera, 7-1, at 141 pounds (Cassera gaining a victory of sorts by not allowing the obviously superior Wilson to pin him) and Wadsworth blanked Jim Mayo, 5-0.

Karim El-Meligi, (10-2) had given PHS a 24-20 lead when he pinned his opponent with 11 seconds to go in his match, which meant that even a decision would not give Delran the match in the final bout. Princeton's other win came at 115 pounds where sophomore John Tazelaar recorded a 5-4 decision over Steve Yu. However, Delran got that right back in the next bout when older brother Eric Tazelaar lost, 9-3, to Jack Giardinelli.

Can PHS Bounce Back? Murray commented that his only concern following the Delran setback is whether his team will be able to bounce back in time to take on Hopewell Valley. The key Colonial Valley Conference match with Hopewell will be held this Wednesday evening at 8 at Hopewell Valley in Pennington.

On Saturday, PHS will entertain Peddie in a 1:30 match. After that, only meets with Trenton and Notre Dame remain before the start of the NJSIAA district matches.

Earlier in the week, PHS had steamrollered Allentown, 43-12, yielding a pin in the heavyweight class and two decisions

Cobb and Wilson got PHS off to a quick 12-0 start with pins in 2:44 and 3:12 respectively. Also scoring pins for PHS were Eric Tazelaar (48 seconds), Wadsworth (5:17) and El-Meligi (2:36)

REGISTRATION UNDERWAY

For Youth Basketball League. Formation of a Youth Basketball Association at the YMCA has been announced by Donald Larsen, the Y's physical education director.

Registration for boys and girls, 8 to 12, is in progress and will continue through February 15. On February 18, all registered players and their families will be invited to a basketball clinic conducted by the Philadelphia 76ers.

Jointly developed by the National YMCA and the NBA Players Association, the YBA stresses fair play. Teams are comprised of nine players and each must see action for a specified time. Players will receive official YBA T-shirts, patches, player handbooks written by NBA stars and player certificates.

For more information, call the Y office at 924-4825.

PDS FIVE COMING BACK

Wins Two More. Now the owner of a modest three-game winning streak, the Princeton Day basketball team appears to have turned the corner from the frustrating string of losses that had plagued it through much of last month.

Continuing the momentum gained by the defeat of Lawrenceville 10 days ago, the Panthers defeated Pennington last Wednesday, 54-48, and more significantly whipped a decent Peddie team in its own gym, 53-40 on Saturday.

"A win against a good team like Peddie has put our confidence way up," reported coach Alan Taback. "We are beginning to play much better as a team."

Currently closing in on the .500 mark, the Blue and White needs victories against its last three opponents, Solebury away on Wednesday, Princeton High home on Thursday and Rutgers Prep away next Wednesday to finish the regular season at 10-10.

It also has a good shot at again winning the State Tournament for Division B teams.

Against Peddie, PDS found itself trailing, 30-27 at the half, mainly because it was not getting back and set on defense quickly enough. Peddie was able to capitalize on several openings and scored on short jump shots.

Taback made the necessary adjustment during the intermission and Peddie's offense all but disappeared, scoring only four points in the

Princeton Churches Plan Special Services To Mark Lenten Season Starting Wednesday

For most Christians Lent is a period of fasting, study and reflection in commemoration of the 40 days Christ spent in the wilderness and the temptations He overcame. Princeton churches have planned special programs for Lent, which begins today with Ash Wednesday and continues until Easter.

A Lenten School has been planned cooperatively by All Saints' Church, the Episcopal Church of Princeton University, Trinity Church and Trinity Counseling Service. The school consists of six different lecture and discussion series at different times and places.

At All Saints' Church on Sundays, beginning this week, there will be a 6 p.m. service of evensong, followed by a potluck supper at 6:30 and a series of five talks and discussions led by the Rev. John Davis of the Aquinas Foundation on "To Hear His Word, To See His World: Christian Spirituality in the 20th Century." The course will progress from a discussion of the psychology of religion to modes of contemporary spirituality and their bases in the Gospel.

On Mondays at 8 at Trinity Counseling Service, 22

Stockton Street, the Rev. E. Rugby Auer, director, will lead a series of six discussions based on the Greek word for Christ which also meant "fish" in the secular world. Each letter formed the beginning letter of the phrase, "Jesus Christ Son of God Savior." Father Auer will explore each of these words and their meaning.

On Tuesday mornings from 11 to 12 noon at Trinity Church, Mrs. Margery Cuyler and Mrs. Sally McAlpin will offer a series of Bible study. Mrs. Cuyler will lead the first three sessions on The Epistle to the Romans, and Mrs. McAlpin will spend the last three sessions on Luke's special parables.

On Tuesday evenings, also at Trinity Church, the rector, the Rev. John Crocker Jr. will lead a series of talks and discussion on "The Faith of Christians" at 8 p.m. preceded by a "School of Prayer," a time of quiet at 7:30. The addresses will be based in part upon unpublished lectures by Dr. Albert T. Mollegen of Virginia Theological Seminary and are intended to help inquirers and skeptics and those seeking to deepen their present faith.

The Rev. Timothy B. Cogan, Episcopal Chaplain at Princeton University, will lead a six session series on "the Four Loves" by C.S. Lewis on Wednesdays at 7 at 53 University Place. Finally, a series of six sessions on World Hunger and Christian Responsibility has been planned by a steering committee of Trinity Church's Hunger Action Committee. The series will start Thursday at 8 with a panel discussion on "Food and Our Global Environment: Two Perspectives" with Prof. Henry Horn of the University's biology department and Thomas Southerland Jr., assistant dean of the School of Architecture and Urban planning and chairman of the Princeton Committee on Hunger Studies from 1974-77.

Nassau Presbyterian Church will hold a Lenten series of Thursday evening worship services beginning this Thursday at 7:30 in the Niles Chapel. Dr. Wallace Alston, pastor, will lead the services on the theme "Seven Whom God Called: From Egypt to Easter."

This week's topic will be "The Shepherd Who Saw God in Human Events" (Moses).

of reference is through "Jewish Gospel Music"—the words of scripture set to an Israeli rhythm and flavor. Messiah's Shofar is a group affiliated with the New York branch.

The group has three members, Steve Silverstein, a Jew for Jesus scholarship student at Northeastern Bible College who sings bass, plays guitar and is the Dunbek (Middle Eastern drum) player, and Steve and Jan Cohen, both graduates of the University of Washington in Seattle. Steve is a haritone and also plays the clarinet. Jan is a soprano and also plays flute and is an accomplished organist and pianist.

Pastor Allen A. Gartner invites the public to attend. Admission is free.

scoreless first period, Lucky Pyne put PDS ahead 1-0, but Hill, which had been unable to tally on several hard shots got lucky on a looping shot that deflected off the glove of defenseman Rob Olsson past goalie Jeff Johnson.

The visitors went ahead 2-1 early in the third, but with 3:33 left in the game, Mike Shannon snuck around the Hill defense, took a pass from Rodgers and scored the tying marker. However, with just 54 seconds left, Hill untied it, and then scored an empty net goal to pull out a 4-2 victory.

Friday night, Princeton Day traveled to Livingston "bound and determined to play together" in the words of coach Harry Rulon-Miller, but things came unglued right from the start. Livingston had several breakaways, and led the disorganized Panthers 3-0 at the end of the first period.

third period and six in the fourth. Princeton Day poured in 26.

Jim Cox had 15 points to lead PDS scorers, Mike Walters and Carl Hill had 14 apiece.

Pennington also led PDS at the half, 25-20, but Taback had played his second unit during part of the first half. A 20-point effort in the third period put the contest in hand for the Panthers.

Andy Sanford played well on defense holding Pennington's Fred Falchi, who had been averaging around 20 points a game, to 12. Walters had 18 for PDS, Hill, 17, and Cox 15.

PDS SEXTET DROPS 3

Now 7-7 on Season. Not much went right for the Princeton Day hockey team last week, as it lost three consecutive contests, one narrowly, the other two badly, and saw its record drop to 7-7.

It all started in a makeup game last Wednesday against Hill, the Panthers were almost able to pull off a repeat of the dramatic comeback in the Lawrenceville game, but this time it was not to be.

Beaten 6-0 by Hill the first time out, the Blue and White did a much better job this time around, especially in their forechecking. After a

This continued in the second and Livingston added another tally, before Pyne made it 4-1 on a pass from Tom Gates.

Matters then got completely out of hand as the home team then tallied four goals in the space of about 2½ minutes. Will Kain finally put an end to the onslaught, when he got his first goal for PDS, assisted by Shannon. PDS outplayed the coasting home team in the third period, with Shannon and Olsson scoring to make it a 9-4 final.

The following morning Hamden Hall came into the PDS rink fresh from a 7-4 victory over Lawrenceville the night before, and handed the Panthers their third loss in four days, 8-4.

Junior Phil Maltese was a bit shaky in his first start in the goal, and Hamden Hall jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the first period. Olsson closed the gap to 2-1 early in the second on a pass from Ward Taggart, but the visitors answered with two more to make it 4-1.

Kain got his second in two games, but this provoked Hamden Hall to score two more still in the second period. Pyne closed out the scoring in that frame.

In the third, PDS came out charging, but again Hamden Hall found the mark first. Larry Pierson got the final PDS tally on a nice shot, and

Sowinski to Top 1,000

With 989 career points to his credit, Frank Sowinski appears certain to become the 14th player in Princeton basketball history to join the 1,000 Club this weekend—in all likelihood Friday night at Providence.

The Tiger star has eight games left, and is averaging 16 a game. If he maintains that pace, adding 108 to his present total, his final mark of 1,097 would put him in eighth place on Princeton's all-time scoring list.

Bill Bradley tops it by a wide margin with 2,503, followed more than 1,000 points lower, by Pete Campbell, 1,451. The first player to make 1,000 points at Princeton (Bud Haabestad, 1,292, '52-'55) is still fourth on the listing, trailing only Bradley, Campbell and Geoff Petrie, 1,321.

TWO MORE BIG WINS

For West Windsor Matmen. Since losing a two-point dual meet to Princeton High last month, Ken Bernabe's West Windsor wrestling team has scored four lopsided wins against county foes.

Last week, Hightstown fell, 48-7, on Saturday and Lawrence High went down, 43-12, on Wednesday. The Pirates are now 9-3.

This Wednesday evening at 8, WW will entertain Hamilton and on Saturday, in a makeup of a match postponed because of snow, it will be at South Hunterdon.

Hightstown scored its seven points on draws in the 101 and 170-lb. bouts and on an 8-3 decision by John Catelli over Brian Fahey to give the Rams an early 5-2 lead. The rest was all WW.

John Houtenville, John Cummings and Jerry Gillette scored consecutive pins at 129, 135 and 141 pounds for WW, while Ralph Barletta added another fall in 4:34 in his 158-pound match. The win was the 50th on the mat for the Pirates.

A 39-second pin by Houtenville over Todd Price highlighted West Windsor's triumph over Lawrence. At 170 pounds, Bill Andrews flattened Ron Buchanan of Lawrence in 4:33.

Gaining major or superior decisions for West Windsor were Wally McIntyre, a 141 winner at 101 pounds; Gillette, a 15-0 winner over Larry Russo at 141 pounds and Ralph Barletta, a 12-4 winner over Brian Brodowski at 158.

GOSPEL MUSIC PLANNED

By Jews for Jesus Group. Messiah's Shofar, an evangelistic presentation group of Jews for Jesus will be at the Lutheran Church of the Messiah, 407 Nassau Street at 7:30 on Sunday.

Jews for Jesus is a national organization which seeks to make the statement that Jesus is the promised messiah, the messiah who was to be a light to the gentiles and the glory of Israel. The group began four years ago in Corte Madera, Calif. with eight people and a printing press. Today, there are branches in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Boston, Chicago, Miami and New York, as well as three mobile evangelistic teams which have been everywhere from Ireland to Israel proclaiming the gospel.

Moishe Rosen, leader of Jews for Jesus, believes that their rapid growth is partly due to the "zeal with which our staff has communicated, through creative means the message of the messiah Jesus." One of the creative ways that is used to share the gospel within a Jewish frame

How Do We Do It?

We are really "matchmakers" who match people and houses. When we have a new listing, we search our list of buyers and let them know immediately about the house. When a new buyer calls or visits our office, we not only check current listings, but we also check the listings we will have in the future. That's how we sell houses so fast and so well.

ANNUAL MEETING SET

By Community Fund. Charles L. Brown, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., will be the featured speaker February 15 at the Princeton Area United Community Fund's 39th annual meeting and campaign awards presentation.

The event will be held at Educational Testing Service, Rosedale Road. A reception will begin at 6 and dinner is scheduled for 7. Speakers, the campaign awards presentation and annual meeting, including the election of new members of the Board of Trustees and officers for 1978, will follow.

Mr. Brown, whose talk will focus on corporate responsibility and the community, has been president of AT&T since April 1, 1977. He and his wife, the former Ann Lee Saunders, live at 116 Hunt Drive. Virginia B. Selden, president of the United Fund, will also speak.

James Stewart III, chairman of the United Fund - Red Cross campaign of the Princeton area, will present nearly 100 awards in recognition of outstanding corporate and employee contributions. Highlighting the ceremony will be the presentation of the Gerard B. Lambert Community Service Award and the United Fund Staff Award.

CAPER PLANNED

As Valentine's Event. The Boudinotes singing group will hold a Valentine's Day Caper on Friday at the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club on Terhune Road. The fund-raiser is planned to enable the Boudinotes, a women's a cappella singing group, to attend an annual gathering of singing groups from across the country in Boulder, Colo. The event, called Spring Sing, is celebrating its 25th year.

Pandy Goodbody and Sheila Pastore are co-chairmen for the Caper, assisted by singers Bev Gellner, Sue Mould, Shiela MacNeille, Kathy Ridolfi, Holly French, Nancy Hatfield, Lolly Parkhurst, Wendy Benchley, Debby Stovall and Landi Eaton.
